PRESIDENT REFUSES TO USE UMBRELLA.

Stands Unprotected in the Heavy Rain While He Dedicates Monument at Antietam.

"I CAN STAND IT IF THEY CAN."

Remarks That He Is Sorry for the Ladies, but the Old Soldiers Can Stand It-Reception on Battlefield.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Sharpsburg, Md., Sept. 17.-President Reosevelt delivered the principal address this morning in a driving rain at the dedication of the monument erected by the State of New Jersey on the historic battlefield of Antietam.

Shortly after the President began to speak the rain commenced to fall in torrents. The stand had a canvas covering over it, but the water poured through it as if it were a sieve. A bystauder offered to hold an umbrella over him, but the President waved him aside, saying: "I don't care for it. If they can stand itpointing to the crowd-1 can."

Turning to the crowd, he said, laughingly: "I don't feel sorry for you old veterans; you will not melt. I do feel sorry for the ladies." The crowd remained through the entire address, urging him to "go on." After the benediction had been prounced the President held an informal reception in the rain, shaking hands with the several hundred veterans. MILITARY ESCORT.

At 19 o'clock the President and Governor Murphy, accompanied by Senators Kean and Dryden, the entire party and nundreds of citizens, left Sharpsburg Station for the famous old Dunkard church on the battlefield of Antietam. There the brigades of veterans in columns of fours escorted the President. Governor Murphy and distinguished guests to the monument. The monument is in the ornate form of a Corinthian column of granite forty feet high, surmounted by a heroic figure in bronze of an officer with upraised sword leading his men in a charge. The figure is intended as a representation of Captain Irish of the Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteers, who was the only New Jersey officer killed at Antietam.

After the assemblage had been called to order by James O. Smith of the New Jersey Monument Commission, and an invocation had been pronounced by the Reverend Doctor Frazer of Newark, Mr. Smith reported to Governor Murphy the final work of the commission. On behalf of the State of New Jersey Governor Murphy accepted the monument in a brief address.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS. President Roosevelt arose to accept the monument on behalf of the Federal Government. He spoke as follows: Governor Murphy; and you, Veterans of New Jersey; and you, men of the Grand Army; and all others here, I greet you. all others here, I greet you:

I thank you of New Jersey for the monument to the troops of New Jersey who fought at Antietam, and on behalf of the nation I accept the glit. We meet to-day upon one of the great battlefields of the Civil War. No other battle of the Civil War lasting but one day shows as great a percentage of loss as that which occurred here upon the day on which Antietam was fought. Moreover, in its ultimate effects this battle was of momentous and even decisive importance, for when it had ended and Lee had retreated south of the Potomac, Lincoln forthwith published that immortal paper. The preliminary declaration of emanchation, the preliminary declaration of emancipation; the paper which decided that the Civil War, besides paper which decided that the Civil War, besides being a war for the preservation of the Union, should be a war for the emancipation of the slave, so that from that time onward the causes of union and of freedom of national greatness and individual liberty, were one and the same.

greatness and individual liberty, were one and the same.

Men of New Jersey, I congratulate your State because she has the right to claim her full share in the honor and glory of that memorable day; and I congratulate you, Governor Murphy, because on that day you had the high good fortune to serve as a lad with credit and honor in one of the five regiments which your State sent to the battle.

Four of these regiments by the way served in the division commanded by that gallant solder. Henry W. Slocum, whom we of New York can claim as our own. The other regiment, that in which Governor Murphy served, although practically an entirely new regiment, did work as good as that of any veteran organization upon the field, and suffered a proportional loss. This regiment was at one time ordered to the support of a division commanded by another New York soldier, the gallant General Greene, whose son himself served as a Major General in the war with Spain, and who is now, as Police Commissioner of New York, rendering as algnal service in civil life as he had already rendered in military life.

THE CRISIS.

THE CRISIS. If the issue of Autletam had been other than it was, it is probable that at least two great European Powers pendence of the Confederacy; so that you who fought here forty-one years ago have the profound satisfaction of feeling that you played well your part in one of those crises big with the fate of all mankind. You, men of the Grand Army, by your vic-tory, not only rendered all Americans your debtors forevermore, but you rendered all hu-manity your debtors. If the Union had been dissolved; if the great edifice built with blood and sweat and tears, by mighty Washington and his compeers, had gone down in wreck-and ruin, the result would have been an in-calculable calamity, not only for our people-and, most of all, for those who, in such event would nave seemingly triumphed-but for all mankind. The great American Republic would have become a memory of derision; and the failure of the experiment of self-government by a great people on a great scale would have delighted the heart of every foe or republican institutions.

delighted the heart of every foe of republican institutions.

Our country, now so great and so wonderful would have been split into little jangling, rival nationalities, each with a history both bloody and contemptible. It was because you, the men who wear the button of the Grand Army, triumphed in those dark years that every American now holds his head high, proud in the knowledge that he belongs to a nation whose glorious past and great present will be succeeded by an even mightler future; whereas had you failed we would all of us, North and South, East and West, be now treated by other nations at the best with contemplanus tolerance; at the worst, with overbearing involence. Moreover, every friend of liberty, every believer in self-government; every idealist who wished to see his ideals take practical shape, wherever he might be in the world, knew that the success of all in which he most believed was bound up with the success of the Union armies in this great struggle.

ISSUES OF WAR.

I consideratly predict that when the

I confidently predict that when the final judgment of history is recorded it will be said that in no other war of which we have written record was it more vitally essential for the welfare of mankind that victory should rest where it finally rested.

There have been other wars for individual freedom. There have been other wars for maticinal greatness. But there has never been another war in which the issues at stake were so large, tooked at from either rundpoint. We take just pride in the great deeds of the men of 17%, but we must keep in mind that the Revolutionary War would have been shorn of well-nigh all its results had the side of union and liberty been defeated in the Civil War.

War.

In such case we should merely have added another to the lamentably long list of cases in which peoples have shown that after winning their liberty they are wholly unable to make good use of it. It now rests with us in civil life to make good by our deeds the deeds which you who wore the blue did in the great years from 1861

by civic courage, civic honesty, cool sanity and steadfast adherence to the immutable laws of righeousness.

You left us a reunited country—reunited in fact as well as in name. You left us the right of brotherhood with your gallant foes who wore the gray—the right to fell pride in their courage and their high fealty to an ideal, even though they warred against the most splendid example of what brotherhood really means, for in your careers you showed in practical fashion that the only safety in our American life lies in spurning the accidental distinctions which sunder one man from another, and in paying homese to each man only because of what he essentially is, in stribuling off the husks of occupation, of position, of accident, until the soul stands forth revealed, and we know the man only because of his worth as a man.

There was no patent device for securing victory by force of arms forty years ago; and here is no patent device for securing victory for the forces of righteousness in civil life now. In each case the all-important factor was and is the character of the individual man. Good laws in the State, like a kood or sanitation in an army, are the expressions of national character. Leaders will be developed in military and in civil life alke: and weapons and tactics change from generation to generation, as methods of achieving good efficienship do not change any more than the fundamental qualities which make for good efficienship do not change any more than the fundamental qualities, which make good soldiers. CHARACTER OF CITIZENS.

In the long run in the Civil War, the thing CHARACTER OF CITIZENS.

In the long run in the Civil War, the thing that counted for more than aught else was the that counted for more than aught eise was the fact that the average American had the fighting edge; had within him the spirit which spurred him on through toll and danger, fatigue and hardehip, to the goal of the spiendid ultimate triumph. So in achieving good government the fundamental factor must be the character of the average citizen; that average citizen's power of haired for what is mean and base and uniovely; his feariess scorn of cowardice and his determination to war unvieldingly against the dark and sordid forces of evil.

covardice and his determination to war unyieldingly against the dark and sordid forces of evil.

The Continental troops who followed Washington were chad in blue and burf, and were armed with clumsy, flintlock muskets. You who followed Grant, wore the famous old blue uniform, and your wespons had changed as had your uniform; and now the men of the American Army who uphold the honor of the fag in the far tropic lands are yet differently
armed and differently clad and differently trained; but the sprit that has driven you all to victory has remained forever unchanged.

So it is in civil life. As you did not win in a month or a year, but only after long years of hard and dangerous work, so the fisht for governmental honesty and efficiency can be wen only by the display of similar patience
and similar resolution and power of endurance.
We need the same type of character now that was needed by the men who with Washington
first inaugurated the system of free popular yournment, the system of combined liberty and order here on this continent; that was needed by the men who under Lincoln perpetuated the Government which had thus been mangurated
in the dars of Washington.

The qualities essential to good citizenship and to good public service now are in all their essentials exactly the same as in the days when the first Congresses met to provide for the ostablishment of the Union; as in the days, seventy years later, when the Congresses met which had to provide for the same and the days when there are many qualities which we need alke in private citizen and in public man, but three above all—three for the lack of which no brilliancy and no genius can atone—and those are courage, honesty and common sense.

It had been intended to drive the President and the distinguished guests over the battlefield, but this was abandoned on account of the rain. After shaking hands with the veterans the President and his party hurried to their train.

EXPANSION IN SHOE TRADE.

The Tennent Shoe Company Increases Its Capital Stock.

The Tennent Shoe Company, which is the land mark in the wholesale shoe trade in St. Louis, has for the second time in two years found it necessary on account of its rapid increase in business to increase its capital stock, this time from $400.000 to $500,000, $300,000 of which will be preferred stock, paying a guarantee of 7 per cent per annum, and $500,000 will be common stock. A year ago Tennent Shoe Company moved into their large, handsome store, 1224 and 1225 Washington avenue, giving them 50 per cent more room. Their business has been growing at such a rate they are now also considering more factory space. Their factory sales and output have increased more than 50 per cent the past year and they anticipate a still larger increase the coming year. This has been one of the most successful houses in the shoe trade. Mr. John H. Tennent having been continuously at the head of this great business for forty years, speaks volumes in the conduct and development of the business to its present large proportion. Their trade is everywhere and their name is one of the most familiar throughout the country. $400,000 to $800,000, $300,000 of which will be out the country.

KINSTRA FINED $1 AND COSTS.

Pleads Guilty to Charge Preferred by Conductor Doyle.

George Kinstra of Webster Groves, who was arrested on a charge of pointing a revolver at Conductor James Doyle of the St. Louis and Meramec River Railroad, resterday pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $1 and costs by Justice

Barron.

Kinstra then swore out a warrant against Doyle, charging him with common assault. The warrant was given to Constable Fred Lenz to serve. Kinstra was a passenger on Doyle's car about two weeks ago and disagreed with the conductor as to the proper place to stop the car in Webster Groves. When he got off the care he went home and got a revolver. He boarded the car on Doyle's return from Kirkwood and pointed it at the conductor.

exchange at par.

Secretary John Ellspermann, Jr., of the Board of Election Commissioners announced yesterday that the board would have the precinct boundaries according to the new law finished to-night, and that the board was waiting for the special committee of the House and Council to decide on the ward lines.

The precincts are based on 300 voters should the special committee make any radical changes in the ward lines, the precinct boundaries, would have to be changed. This work was almost completed by the old committee, but now that a reorganization has been affected in the House it must be gone over again A hig delay will result unless the present committee accepts the work of the combined House and Council committee. Should the special committee make any
